NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS December 31, 2004

1. Summary Of Significant Accounting Policies

Estimates And Assumptions

Management uses estimates and assumptions in preparing financial statements. Those estimates and assumptions affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities, and the reported revenues and expenses. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Securities Transactions

Securities transactions of the Company are recorded on the trade date basis. Marketable securities are valued at market value and the resulting difference between cost and market is included in income.

Cash And Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all temporary cash investments as cash equivalents. These temporary cash investments are securities held for cash management purposes, having original maturities of three months or less.

Income Taxes

The Company is included in the consolidated federal and state income tax returns of its parent company. The parent company makes all necessary income tax payments for the Company. The provision is the amount assessed by the parent company for the Company's pro rata share of current federal and state income taxes at statutory rates, calculated as if the companies filed on a separate return basis. During 2004, no assessment for income taxes was made by the parent company.

2. Operations

HFI Securities, Inc. (the Company) was incorporated November 28, 2000 with its principal activity being a broker of stocks, bonds, mutual funds and other securities. The Company is a wholly owned subsidiary of Longrow Holdings, Inc.

The Company is subject to the Securities and Exchange Commission Uniform Net Capital Rule (SEC Rule 15a3-1), which requires the maintenance of minimum net capital of $5,000 and requires that the ratio of aggregate indebtedness to net capital, both as defined, shall not exceed 15 to 1. At December 31, 2004, the Company was in compliance with both of the above-stated net capital rules.

The Company has an agreement with a national broker-dealer to clear certain of its proprietary and customer transactions on a fully disclosed basis. This agreement requires that $50,000 of cash and/or securities be maintained with the broker-dealer. The deposit is made up of cash.

3. Financial Instruments With Off-Balance-Sheet Risk

In the normal course of business, the Company's customer and clearing agent clearance activities involve the execution and settlement of various customer security transactions. These activities may expose the Company to off-balance-sheet risk in the event the customer or other broker is unable to fulfill its contracted obligations and the Company has to purchase or sell the financial instrument underlying the contract at a loss.

4. Related Party Transactions

The Company is operating under a management agreement with Longrow Holdings, Inc. (Longrow), its parent company. The management agreement provides for services to be provided by Longrow including payment of utilities and the use of office space, office equipment and employees of Longrow. In exchange for these services, the Company pays to Longrow, on a monthly basis, management fees to be mutually determined by the management of both companies. Management fees amounted to $466,500 for the year ended December 31, 2004, of which $20,671 is accrued and unpaid at the end of 2004.

In addition, the Company receives commission income from a company affiliated by common ownership for buying and selling securities directed to the Company at the affiliate's discretion. Total commission income from these trades amounted to $422,620 for the year ended December 31, 2004.

Independent Auditors' Report On Internal Accounting Control

Board of Directors HFI Securities, Inc. St. Louis, Missouri

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements and supplemental schedules of HFI Securities, Inc. (the Company) for the year ended December 31, 2004, we considered its internal control, including control activities for safeguarding securities, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on internal control.

Also, as required by rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company including tests of such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in Rule 17a-5(g) in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness (or aggregate debits) and net capital under Rule 17a-3(a)(11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of Rule 15c3-3. Because the Company does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, we did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

- 1) Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verification, and comparisons,
- 2) Recordation of differences required by Rule 17a-13, or
- 3) Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal control and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of controls and, of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph, assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of internal control and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in internal control or the practices and procedures referred to above, error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Our consideration of internal control would not necessarily disclose all matters in internal control that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that error or fraud in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving internal control, including control activities for safeguarding securities, that we consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

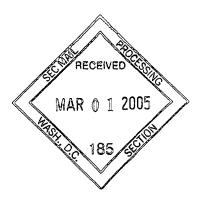

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at December 31, 2004, to meet the SEC's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors, management, the Securities and Exchange Commission, and other regulatory agencies which rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
